What the Day Heralds

Key Messages from CBT Governor Yilmaz:

- Monetary policy targets sustainable credit growth
- CBT is concern over rising commodity prices
- Imported inflation is at 10.9%, March reading was above that target
- Inflation dynamics are developing within the CBT's expectations
- Restructuring revenues to be used to pay government debt
- Despite supply side shocks, inflation dynamics have not deteriorated
- CBT still prioritizes inflation targeting
- Fiscal discipline to be kept as is
- Turkey to reduce debt stock during 2011-2013
- Public revenues should be spent on infrastructure
- CBT to start imposing measures in 2Q11.
- Currencies of low risk economies to outperform others

Rise in credit growth as a percentage of GDP at 12%, is high, requires attention. Measures taken by the CBT to slow down credit growth as of 2Q11

Although unemployment level remains high, it is approaching pre-crisis levels

Domestic demand is on the rise in 1Q11

Comment: Along with Chinese and Russian central banks, the Turkish central bank is taking drastic measures to limit credit growth. This is likely to have implications, lowering domestic demand growth that has been motivated by low cost credit. We now know that the CBT wants to curb the rise in domestic demand through low credit costs, and is likely to increase RRR further should credit growth exceed 20-25% annual growth. We now believe that the CBT may commence rate hikes as early as 2Q11, given inflationary concerns over the recent rises in oil prices. The CBT also expects the TL to appreciate in the upcoming period.

We disagree with CBT's views on several issues: 1) We think we have seen the peak of oil prices, and inflationary pressures are likely to be around 7% at year end. 2) Pre-loaded rate hikes may have negative implications for the economy that is recently recovering from a global recessionary period. 3) Contrary to our view, the CBT expects the TL to appreciate. We think the value of US Dollar will likely bottom-out soon, as the FED's Fisher has signaled that the US is nearing the end of QE2. Please see other recent macro notes on fixed income and interest rate expectations. (See our Macro Note: Key Messages from CBT Governor Yilmaz, of March 25.)

CUR- in line with expectations... The capacity utilization rate (CUR) rose by 5.9 points y/y to 73.2% in March, in line with the market consensus of 73.2% in addition to a 0.2 point improvement on a monthly basis. Bear in mind that 2010 average CUR registered at 72.6%, which shows that March 2011 CUR remains above the 2010 average. CUR of around 75% implies that current levels are still lower than the pre-crisis level; thus there is no need to mention inflationary pressures.

Seasonally-adjusted capacity utilization realized at 76.4%, significantly higher than the March 2010 level of 70.5%, and slightly higher than last month's reading of 76.1%.

According to the main industry groupings, durable consumer and intermediate goods displayed annual growth in March. However consumer, food and beverages, investment and non-durable consumer goods displayed annual contraction.

Comment: The slight monthly increase in CUR means that economic activity is continuing its rising trend. Seasonally-adjusted CUR is above the 2010 level, and therefore 1Q11 GDP growth may exceed expectations. A limited hike in monthly CUR is not applying much pressure to March inflation as of yet, but is expected to increase from now on. Continuing unrest in the MENA region, especially military intervention to Libya, may affect trade, thus impacting Turkey's current account deficit, as the country has been producing a trade surplus from business with Libya since 2007. (See our Macro Note: Capacity Utilization- March 2011, of March 25.)

PM's Energy Comments... Prime Minister Erdogan has confirmed that the state would complete the privatization of 17 thermal and 28 hydroelectric powerplants by the end of this year. He mentioned plans for Ceyhan to become an energy center by 2023, and that stressed continued determination to construct a nuclear power plant.

No price adjustment in electricity prices until July... The Energy Market Regulatory Authority (EMRA) has announced that there would be no amendments to prices until July, maintaining a price of 12.4 kurus/kWh.

Solid operating performance in 4Q10...

Sise Cam has announced a TL 144 mn net profit in its 4Q10 financials, compared to TL 33 mn a year ago. The company's better top line performance, in tandem with higher operating margins led to improvement at the bottom line.

This was also above our TL 57 mn call and CNBC-E consensus of TL 82 mn.

The consolidated net earnings accumulated to TL 412 mn in 2010, marking a 2.7-fold y/y increase.

In addition, the company is to propose to its AGM the payment of a TL 45.76 mn cash dividend on May 31. This corresponds to a TL 0.04 gross per share dividend, yielding 1.2%.

Sise Cam's consolidated revenues rose by 18% y/y to TL 1.1 bn in 4Q10, largely driven by strong top line performance of the glass packaging segment. The full year top line emerged at TL 3.65 bn, on a 15% y/y increase.

In the meantime, consolidated EBITDA rose by 65% y/y to TL 251 mn in 4Q10 (Ata Est: 194 mn and consensus: TL 228 mn), with a 22.8% EBITDA margin, compared to 16.3% a year ago. Improvement at the operating level was largely driven by a 10-pp y/y increase in the glassware segment's EBITDA margin. Also, the 6-pp y/y improvement in the glass packaging segment's EBITDA margin was helpful for margin expansion on a consolidated basis.
